LOCAL BRIEFS.

The Scheim Mercantile company of Park City has been bought out by Blythe & Fargo of Wyoming.

The county commissioners will look over the road leading to the Macdonald house Saturday, with a view to repairing it.

National Bank Examiner O. C. Hebes has 27 national banks in his district and after looking over the local banks is preparing to make a tour of the Wyoming banks.

Pine apples are selling locally at 20 cents each, owing to a large shipment having been sent to this market. Strawberry berries are selling as low as 10 cents per box, though the ruling price is two boxes for two bits.

President J. W. McDonald of the Street Improvement company of San Francisco is in town to inspect the building of the new city hall, 200 South Temple street, which he says will be pushed right through without delay.

At the meeting of the state board of education yesterday afternoon the following certificates were granted: State certificates, to Ira A. Cole of Logan, Kas., and to George W. Stoddard, a normal grade diploma, to Mima B. Kimball and Florence Dye of Salt Lake.

The new telephone directory, which will be out in a few days, will contain but 40 pages, with the names in double column instead of one column as heretofore. It is proposed to have the company to cut down the size of the book, and saves about $4,000.

The Veteran Firemen's association met last night, to make final arrangements for their social and dance to be given in their hall Friday evening at 7 o'clock. The affair promises to be a pleasing success, and the proceeds will be devoted to the building fund.

A large number of the draughtmen of this city are agitating the matter of organizing a sketch club for the purpose of securing the services of architectural art among the members of the club. It is proposed that sketching trips will be taken, and competitions will be held, just as is done by similar clubs in the east.

The town council of Scofield, through its president, has sent an appeal to the citizens of Salt Lake for a donation of flowers to decorate the graves of the victims of the explosion at that place about two years ago. The president states that any money raised for the purpose of flowers will be highly appreciated and there will be a committee at the depot on the morning of Memorial day to meet them and see that they are properly distributed.

Work is being pushed so rapidly in the new quarters of the Commercial club that it is easily seen that the club is to have a palatial home. The first fixture has been moved in in the shape of a story reference study of which and which will hold in storage 400 pounds of ice. Secretary Harris is anxiously awaiting the arrival of the electric light fixtures. The dining room proper will be finished in ivory white and the ladies' dining room will be finished in Flemish oak.

Lieut. Webb and Will Kneass left today for San Francisco, whence they will sail for Manila to take clerical positions with the commissary department and receive the lieutenant's appointment to be located on one of the island transports. He resigned his position as drill master of the High School students yesterday afternoon, after the regular term of his appointment was up to take his place until the opening of next term, as the present term is too near the close for an appointment.

A special committee representing the union of Common Laborers, has been organized, at least, among the other labor unions of the city. This committee was appointed to prepare a bill for an entertainment to be given at Federation of Labor hall on Thursday evening. In pursuance of their calling they unconsciously placed the job of printing the dodgers in a non-union shop, and about five hundred of the army. The lieutenant expects to be located on one of the island transports. He resigned his position as drill master of the High School students yesterday afternoon, after the regular term of his appointment was up to take his place until the opening of next term, as the present term is too near the close for an appointment.

An old church landmark has been torn down at Boise in the destruction of the city's first town hall. This old building, first covered by a dirt roof, but later enclosed with one of masonry, was one of the oldest structures in Boise and occupied the hotel corner at Ninth and Idaho streets. In that house the First Baptist church of Boise City was organized; the Presbyterian church was organized there; the Methodist church was organized there; the first temperance society was formed there and held the building under lease considerable time. The first business college was established there; it was kept the first Sunday school. It was the city's real town hall—the center of every moral, religious and progressive movement.

The First Infantry band is now sure of a drum major—a drum major who will "take the cake," frosting and all. The man is Lester Carner Gathouse, the 6 feet 8 inches infant who figured so prominently in athletics in the state university. He has accepted the offer of the band and says he is willing to wear a shako three feet high if the colonel desires it. When the First Infantry band marches down Main street with its gigantic drum major in the lead, the top of his shako towering even higher than the mounted colonel, and his gold bullion accoutrements glittering in the sun, every youth in town will go frantic for joy, and beg for the honor of helping him up his shako buttons; and baton practicing will be the order of the day among the Salt Lake boyshood from morn till eve. There threatens to be in fact, continual warfare among the local youth for a chance to help pack the bass drum, that the opportunity may be improved to study the glories of that drum major at short range.

NORMALS ACHIEVE VICTORY.

At Spirited Meeting They Feted Editor of University Chronicle.

One of the most tempestuous sessions the students of the State university ever indulged in was held yesterday afternoon. The meeting was called for the purpose of electing an editor of the Chronicle, the university paper, and a president of the student body, as both of the present incumbents of those offices will graduate this year. The students met in the right mood for a spirited contest. It was understood by the members of the engineering department that the normal students would elect one of their members to the editorship and they vowed a solemn vow that it would never be. But the spirit of the normals was up, they bore in humiliated and resented the slight that had been put upon them by the haughty college students and they would ride them down to defeat this time if they died in the attempt.

Since this was the spirit that dominated ated the meeting it is no wonder that the contest was a wild one, and especially so because it was a very close one. The normals put forward as their champion, Fred Anderson, while the engineers looked to R. Elmer Caldwell to carry them to victory. Each student was shouting for his favorite and the contest was a very close one. The normals put forward as their champion, Fred Anderson, while the engineers looked to R. Elmer Caldwell to carry them to victory. Each student was shouting for his favorite and the contest was a very close one.

SCHOOL BOARD OPEN BIDS.

Fifty-Nine Firms Heard From—To be Tabulated at Once.

The board of education met last night and opened bids from 59 publishing houses for the furnishing of text-books for the public schools of this city for the ensuing five years. Eight of the bidders submitted two bids each and there were therefore 67 bids in all. The clerk read the names of the firms, except the 19th, but waived the reading of the bids until they are all tabulated, which will require several days of arduous work.

THE NEW CREMATORY.

Will be Built on Old Site Near Warm Springs.

It was decided by the board of public works, at a meeting held at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, to build the new crematory on the old site in North Salt Lake, and the clerk was instructed to notify the Dixon Garbage Crematory company, of Toledo, Ohio, of such decision so the work of construction could be continued without further delay. R. J. Decker, the representative of the company, was present at the meeting and was immediately notified by Clerk Whitaker. Under the terms of the contract the crematory must be completed by August 1st and Mr. Decker assured the board that work would be commenced at once.

The board also gave the Oregon Short Line permission to plank the crossing at Third West and Second South streets temporarily with wooden planking instead of stone. The board reserves the right to at any time request the company to replace the wooden planking with stone paving.

AMUSEMENTS.

Last night at the theater was almost a pitched battle between Director McCrellan on one hand, and a big and brilliant audience on the other. The audience started in with the seeming intention of endorsing every number that the Jolly Musketeers presents. This lasted half way through the first act, and then Mr. McCrellan, seeing that a continuation meant a midnight session, refused to allow any more responses.

The final performance of "The Jolly Musketeers" in Salt Lake will be given tonight, tomorrow afternoon and evening. Tomorrow's matinee will begin at 3 o'clock to give the schools a chance to attend.

Nothing in the recent history of the Theater has equalled the rush witnessed there when the sale opened at 3 o'clock last night. The rush was so great that the doors were closed at 3 o'clock to give the schools a chance to attend.
